

Animal Crime Scene Workshop

Hosted by the UF Maples
Center for Forensic Medicine

March 10-12, 2020

Cost: $375

Understanding the process for the proper documentation, collection, and recovery of physical evidence from buried animal remains is an essential skill for those engaged in the application of the forensic sciences to veterinary medicine. This intensive three-day workshop will address the knowledge, skills and abilities needed for the proper processing of buried animal remains associated with a legal investigation.
